Black covert walks

Just 9 miles south east of Aberystwyth, and less than 2 miles from our accommodation.

Black Covert woodlands is a peaceful spot on the banks of the River Ystwyth which flows through this steep sided valley meandering its way to Aberystwyth. Black Covert got its name from the Trawsgoed (Crosswood) Estate it was once part of and 'covert' is an area for raising game, probably pheasants that were once raised in area.

PICNIC SITE

The Black Covert picnic site shelters under large Ash, Birch and Sweet chestnut trees with the beautiful Afon Ystwyth rushing by. You can choose to do the gentle riverside walk alongside of the crystal clear water. or try the more strenuous Birchgrove/Coed Allt-fedw walk.

RIVERSIDE WALK (1.75 miles, 2 kilometres).

This trail offers a gentle walk through beech woodland from the picnic site and alongside the River Ystwyth returning through woodland filled with the scent of resin. In the spring the area is carpeted with bluebells.

BIRCHGROVE WALK (2 miles, 3.2 kilometres).

This trail includes numerous long climbs and steep descents as it passes an attractive pond and the 2000 year old hill fort of Allt-Fedw. There is a viewpoint with panoramic views over rolling hills and valleys.

Directions to Black Covert: The woodland is 9 miles south-east of Aberystwyth off the B4340 from Aberystwyth to Trawsgoed. Black Covert picnic site is 1 kilometre south of Abermagwr. Turn right over the bridge (signed Llanilar B4575) then turn immediately left and left again into the car park.
